TU Football Coach Quits In Surprise Move

Senate Appoints Five Students To Constitution Revision Unit

A committee appointed to investigate the constitutions of Association of Women Students, Inter Fraternity Council, Panhellenic Council, and Student Senate was approved by Student Senate last Monday evening.

The constitution investigation committee is composed of five students already selected, and two members of the Council on Student Affairs, who will be chosen later.

The five student committeemen, members of the groups under scrutiny, are as follows:

Angie Genovese, AWS and Student Court; Del Morgan, IFC; Idora Jones, Panhel; Bob Taylor, Student Senate; and Adele Kilken; Senate parliamentarian.

Investigation of the Senate constitution is first on the agenda.

The new committee will probably meet weekly until all constitutions concerned are interpreted and their lines of authority and responsibility defined.

Last Wednesday at 4 p. m. the Senate Reviewing Committee selected the following students as University-Anniversary Prom subcommittee chairmen:

Chuck Green, general chairman, with subcommittee chairmen; Denver Price, finance; Jane Winfield, Miss B-G selection; Jane Malaby, decorations; Don Miller, publicity; and Brad Hitchings, band selection.

The subcommittee chairmen will be given the names of students who volunteered for U-A Prom subcommittees if they wish to work on Prom planning.

Poll returns on student opinion, conducted to determine if students want the Library open until 10 p. m. Sundays, are not due until 3 p. m. Monday, Nov. 5 in the Senate office.

Opinion votes will be taken by sororities, fraternities, and in the dorms this week.

Persons who do not have the opportunity to vote through these groups are requested to place their ballots in the ballot box in front of the Main Aud.

Jack Mullen, speaking for the Artillery ROTC, recommended to Senate that students be urged to recognize, by showing proper respect, the raising and lowering of the flag in the Circle.

One of the various military groups on campus will be in charge of the flag detail the remainder of the year.

Journalism Dept. Plans Completed

When the Bowling Green State College chimney next to the old heating plant building was torn down last summer, it was the first step in changing the building into the new home of the journalism department.

The three boilers which previously occupied the building have been removed. Two of the boilers were demolished and one was removed by the State Department of Welfare.

Plans for the new department have been completed by J. K. Raney, University architect, and an OED Approval has been received from the National Production Authority of the Department of Commerce.

In an unexpected move, Don Greenwood, head football coach at the University of Toledo, tendered his resignation to Asa S. Knowles, president of the Toledo school.

TU's Athletic Board was to act on Greenwood's proffered resignation yesterday and it is widely expected that it will be accepted. Greenwood, when contacted at his home, would not disclose the reasons for his actions nor add any comment.

It is believed that Greenwood resigned partially due to the Toledo-Bowling Green game last Saturday when the Rockets won 12-6. A brawl followed the game which is the subject of an investigation by officials of both universities. It is understood that Greenwood was irked by what he called the officials' failure to protect his players during the game.

Greenwood stepped up to the head coaching spot last winter after Bob Snyder quit. He had acted as Snyder's assistant previous to that. During his college days he was a star for the "fighting Illini" of the University of Illinois and after he was graduated he played pro football for the Cleveland Browns.

Only Tuesday Toledo University officials had given the young coach a vote of confidence.

Greenwood directed Wednesday's drill in civilian clothes and told the players of his action after the practice session was over.

For Toledo University it makes the fourth coach in four years that it has lost. Preceding Snyder from last year were Skip Staley and Bill Orwig.

There are three assistant coaches who might be given the head coaching job for the remainder of the season. Line Coach Joe Fortunato, End Coach Clair Dunn, and Backfield Coach Dick Huston. Of the three, Dunn has been at Toledo for the longest time.

Dr. Ralph W. McDonald declined to comment on Greenwood's resignation but did say that the investigation being conducted by Dean Ralph G. Harshman was drawing to a close and would be submitted to him the first part of next week.

Willie Really Shook A Spear When Dancing Charleston

By CAROL SUTLIFF

William Shakespeare may have turned over in his grave if he had seen some of the productions of his plays. But in Bowling Green's latest version of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," the old bard comes back to view the show.

He not only sees what's happened to his play, but finally joins in and really "swings it" in "Swing It, Shakespeare."

This third annual student musical is being presented tonight and Saturday night in the Main Aud.

The scenes in "Swing It, Shakespeare" switch from back-stage views of a college play production to the on-stage scenes which take place in the sixteenth century.

Because of this there is no continuous plot to hold the show together. There's a spot of music, some clever dialogue, an effective dance routine, but in between these are blank spots.

The singing-dancing chorus sets the on-stage scene with the lively "We Love to Live in Illyria." The special lighting effects here add a great deal to the professional appearance of the show. This special lighting is used again in the "Twelfth Night Waltz" number when the chorus is silhouetted against a blue background as it dances.

Richard Payne, as Orsino, does two excellent solo numbers, "I Love Ya, Olivia," and "Love Is a Marionette." The female lead, Christine Redrup, has only one song, "It's Great To Be a Man."

Sir Toby Belch and Sir Andrew, played by Vincent Tampio and Harold McCrady, made a hit with the audience with "I'll Be There" and "Drink, Drink." With this last number they and the male chorus use huge drinking cups, later used to take a free-will offering.

Mr. Shakespeare, cast as "Just Plain Bill" and played by William Miller, protests dramatically about the way his play has been revised. The charms of Christine Redrup finally win him over.

He admits that it's been a "number of years" since he did any singing, but he joins with the chorus in the final number, "Swing It, Shakespeare."

This year's musical was written by James Limbacher and directed by Carl Balson. David Nizny directed the orchestra.

Four Attend State Sales Convention

Dr. Ralph G. Harshman, Dr. Benjamin L. Pierce, Prof. John R. Davidson, and Prof. Lewis F. Manhart attended the State Sales Managers Conference, yesterday at Ohio State University.

They were invited by the National Association of Sales Managers, who sponsor the convention.

The University's thirtieth annual Homecoming is expected to bring more than 2,000 alumni back for a week end overflowing with social events.

Open houses, all-campus and closed dances and buffet suppers will keep the alumni and undergraduates occupied from Friday afternoon until Sunday evening.

A high spot of the crowded week-end schedule is the football game between Bowling Green and Kent State at 2 p. m. Saturday. Homecoming queen will be crowned in a pre-game ceremony, and Alpha Chi Omega will award two trophies for winners of the Homecoming decorations contest.

A registration booth will be set up on the stadium Saturday so that alumni may register before, during, or after the game.

Immediately after the game alumni and faculty will hold a reunion in the Men's Gym.

Bowling Green's alumni from the Chicago area have planned a meeting in the faculty room of the Nest at 12:30 p. m. Saturday.

During the week end, Omicron Delta Kappa will set up an information booth in the Ad Bldg. for alumni use.

"Swing It, Shakespeare," the third annual student musical, will be presented tonight and Saturday evening in the Main Aud. The Shakespeare farce, written by James Limbacher, begins at 8:15.

Panhellenic Council and Interfraternity Council are sponsoring the all-campus dance in the Women's Gym tonight from 9 'til 12. Music will be by the Autumnaires.

Saturday night Vic Stuart and his orchestra will play for the "Coronation Ball" in the Men's and Women's Gym. Women's Independent Society and Men's Independent Society sponsor this affair.

Women's Recreation Association alumnae will play the seniors in a hockey game Saturday morning. Other groups have also planned breakfasts for returning alumni and friends.

Instructor Wykes' New Compositions To Be Played Soon

Two musical works by a Bowling Green music instructor are to be publicly performed.

Robert Wykes, music department instructor, is composer of the composition "Sinfonia for Orchestra" which will be played in Rochester, N. Y. by the Eastman-Rochester Symphony Orchestra Nov. 5. Dr. Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music, will conduct.

The occasion is the annual American Orchestral Symposium, this year to be held at the Eastman School of Music Nov. 5 to 7 featuring works of contemporary composers of the United States.

Mr. Wykes will attend the Symposium to hear his composition performed.

Another composition by Mr. Wykes is a chamber opera entitled "The Frankster." It will have a local debut Jan. 12 and 13 in the Gate Theater.

Warren Allen, baritone, and mezzo-soprano, Rosalyn Wykes, wife of the composer, will star in the opera.

Mr. Wykes wrote "The Frankster" last summer at MacDowell Colony, Peterborough, N. H. where he had a resident fellowship.

He joined the Bowling Green faculty in 1950, after getting his M. A. in music at the University of Rochester.

American Artists' Works Exhibited At Gallery Soon

The works of eight nationally-known water color artists will be featured in an exhibition of paintings scheduled for the Fine Arts Bldg. gallery from Nov. 5 to Dec. 28.

Thirty-two water color and gouache paintings by contemporary American artists will be exhibited. The works of Doug Kingman, Maurice Freedman, Lenard Kester, Henry Koerner, Fred Meyer, William Palmer, Waldo Peirce, and William Thon will be shown.

Five of these painters have had their work featured in "Time," "Life," and "Esquire," and all of them have sold examples of their work to leading museums for permanent collections.

In Our Opinion

Retreat Honors Service Dead

A recent and significant addition to campus custom is the raising and lowering of the American flag, in the Circle, by various military groups.

Lowering of the flag is known in military parlance as Retreat. It is an actual salute honoring those who died in service of their country.

Some students at Bowling Green have been observed standing about smoking, or talking, or simply walking on when the flag is being lowered.

Many students haven't had military indoctrination as to the respect to be accorded the American flag. However, while in elementary school they were certainly taught the flag ritual and the attendant postures to be assumed when the flag is raised and lowered.

Why should these students, when they have been taught proper respect for the flag, fail to practice those correct procedures here?

The additional custom is a welcome one and we hope that the student body will not be remiss in taking a few minutes out of the day to practice Americanism.

Ode To Homecoming

BY D. RUSTIN

'Twas the night before Homecoming,
And all through the University,
Every creature was stirring,
Yes, even the faculty.
The mugs were all placed
On the table with care,
In hopes that the waitress
Soon would be there.
The deans were all nestled
Snug in their beds,
While visions of promotions
Danced in their heads.
The housemothers in their kerchiefs
And the cops in their caps,
Had trouble settling the dorms
For very long naps.
When out on the campus
There arose such a clatter,
They blew the whistle
When they saw what was the matter.
Away to the scene
The cops flew like a flash;
Cut across the grass (oops),
And arrived in a dash.
The rain on the breast
Of the new-fallen leaves,
Gave the gloom of BG weather
To whatever a visitor sees.
When, what should their eyes
Wondering eyes behold,
But a '49 Chrysler,
Green and growing old,
With a little old driver,
Lively and a bit stout,
They knew in a moment
It must be Dr. Prout.
He spoke not a word,
For no one was hurt,
But viewed all the campus
That had grown in such spurts.
Then clasping his hands
In back of his head,
A favorite gesture when
Something was to be said,
He turned to the crowd,
Cops, students, and faculty,
(Knowing them made him proud)
To them he said:
"My job is done—
To all a pleasant Homecoming
For 1951."

CLASSES AT THIS school were first held in September of 1915 in the present administration and science buildings.

THERE ARE 65,000 volumes, plus several thousand government documents in the library.

Weldon Brooks Became First Homecoming Beauty In 1938

BY FLO BEATTY

Bowling Green Homecoming Queens bear no resemblance to old soldiers who faded away, for most of the queens soon find kings and presumably reign happily ever after.

Eighteen years after the first Homecoming celebration in 1920, the students decided to have a queen reign over the big event.

In 1938, Weldon Brooks became the first Homecoming Queen in Bowling Green's history. She later married Richard Fruth, also a Bowling Green graduate. They are now living in Fostoria.

The address of the second queen, Mildred Wolf, is not known at this time, but when she "had her day," Norwalk was her home town.

In 1940, Gerry Barker, who later became Mrs. Barker, had the honors. She resides in Akron.

Donna Rech, later to be Mrs. Deeler of Cleveland, was the fourth queen for the big week end.

In 1943 the Navy V-12s came on campus and helped choose Jeanne Powell as queen. Jeanne, a Delta Gamma, was the only faculty daughter to be elected.

Mrs. Robert Brennan, presently of Cleveland, recalls back to 1944 when as Kay McDermott, Gamma Phi Beta, she was crowned Homecoming Queen.

In 1945, the war prevented the university from having any Homecoming celebrations so of course this eliminated the queen contest.

It was resumed the following fall when Alpha Xi Delta's Jane Brynes reigned. Jane is now living in Columbus as the queen of Richard Slater.

Patty Bice, now Mrs. William Noble, Columbus, reigned in 1947 and Marion DeConick took over the next year. Both are Gamma Phi Betas. Marion is teaching in Birmingham, Mich. and Patty is an advertising manager.

A Florida beauty, Dottie Totoui, Alpha Chi Omega, stole the Bowling Green Yankee's hearts in 1949 and came out on top in the balloting. Dottie is now an executive in a Cleveland advertising agency.

Last year's queen, Nedra Mason, Gamma Phi, is a senior on campus now as is one of her attendants, Mimi Baade.

So there's your answer to what happens to past queens. The excitement of Homecoming may fade away but not the girls themselves.

Educated At OSU

Mrs. Margaret K. Stutsman, Columbus, a graduate of Ohio State University, is Pres. Ralph W. McDonald's new secretary.

Before coming to Bowling Green, Mrs. Stutsman was secretary to the director of the Ohio State Museum.

Dept. Gets Meter

The University's chemistry department has acquired a new Beckman A. C. pH meter.

A pH meter is used primarily to determine acidity and states of oxidation.

Dr. Weber of the chemistry department will use the instrument in the preparation of organic compounds.

Kent State Here For Homecoming Tilt

The Golden Flashes of Kent State University will be the Falcons' 30th Homecoming foe tomorrow afternoon at 2. A capacity crowd of students, parents, and alumni are expected to watch Bowling Green attempt to get back on the winning paths after being detoured by Toledo.

Almost all of the Falcon gridders are expected to be ready for action with the possible exception of Rol Wrightsman who was injured in last week's game. He was the only bad injury of the game and no one was hurt during the after game ceremonies.

The Falcons will be taking a season record of two wins and four losses into the game but Homecoming record stands at 15 wins, 7 losses, and 7 ties. Under Bob Whittaker's coaching the Falcons have won eight Homecoming tilts, lost one and tied one. So if past records count the Falcons will come through.

Kent State, coached by Trevor Rees, will be trotting forth their star, Jack Mancos, to compete against the Falcon's star ground-gainer Fred Durig.

The Golden Flashes have won three games thus far, dropping two decisions and ending up in a tie with Morris Harvey. The Flashes will have an experienced team to face the Falcons and they have not been hurt by injuries, although Kent officials reported that Mancos was hurt. He will play Saturday however.

Kent State will be weak in experience with their reserves as twenty members of the 44 man squad are freshmen.

Probable starting line-ups for tomorrow:

Undefeated SAE To Meet Sigma Chi

Next week will decide the fraternity touch football champions for the year. The highlight game of the week finds Sigma Chi facing the undefeated SAEs. This game—to be played on Monday, will be a chief factor in deciding the championship.

Should the Sigma Chi's win, this would cause a three-way deadlock in the league, and the final games on Wednesday would be needed to decide the winner.

On Wednesday Sigma Chi downed Phi Psi 26-12; Sig Eps dropped one to Sigma Nu 13-12, giving them a tie with Sigma Chi for second place; ATO edged Theta Chi 26-20 while Delta Tau Delta won over Kappa Sigma 9-0.

The standings are:
Sigma Alpha Epsilon.....7 0
Sigma Chi.....6 1
Sigma Nu.....6 1

BG Harriers Meet Kent, Ohio University

Bowling Green's undefeated, once-tied cross country team will face Kent State and Ohio University in a dual meet here Saturday morning at 10:15.

Coach Dave Matthews doesn't expect much trouble from either of the schools, since both are having poor seasons. However, he added that his squad would be running its hardest in an attempt to set a new course record.

In the five meets of the season, Bowling Green has won four and tied one. The harriers defeated Albion, Baldwin-Wallace, and also Wayne before they were held to a tie by a strong Michigan Normal. They trounced Ball State last week for their fourth victory.

Lee Pate has been the top Falcon runner of the season. He has finished first four times and third once.

Junior Falcons Face Ohio U

The Bowling Green JV Football squad is in Athens this afternoon to play the Bobkittens of Ohio University.

The junior Falcons have a season record of one win and one loss. They won their opener from Heidelberg, 19-14 and then lost a close game to the Toledo JV's 9-7.

The Bobkittens of Ohio U. have played only one game this season; trounced by the Cincinnati JV squad 25-0.

The next home game for the Falcons will be Nov. 9 when they play Heidelberg.

BOWLING GREEN'S 1950 Homecoming game with Baldwin-Wallace ended in a 34-34 tie.

Phys Ed Club Holds Initial Parent's Day

Seventy-four parents were present at the first Parents' Day recently held by the women's physical education department.

The day was planned to acquaint parents with activities of the physical education department, and to introduce parents to the faculty.

The program consisted of student demonstrations of various sports during the afternoon and a banquet for the faculty, students, and parents in the evening. Demonstrations, including hockey, tap and modern dance, precision drill, and archery, were concluded by a Swan Club performance.

Barbara Ducharme acted as toastmistress at the banquet in the First Christian church. Following the dinner there was group singing, a piano solo by Beverly Schardt, and a vocal solo by Lois Brockett. Miss Gertrude Eppler and Mrs. Amy Torgerson spoke about opportunities in the physical education field.

Varsity Highlights

BY BILL GREENHILL

STATEMENTS have been released by both Toledo and Bowling Green officials regarding the second event on last Saturday's athletic double-header. As everyone should have expected, both schools believe they did no wrong. Bowling Green's statement said that all the Falcon personnel were exonerated and Toledo says that Coach Don Greenwood's action was justified under the circumstances.

IT IS NOT AT ALL surprising to us that both universities said what they did, because in a situation like this a school either has to back up its coach and team or fire the coach. And the action of Saturday certainly didn't justify that drastic action on either side.

HOWEVER, we do think that Toledo's statement, that the fracas was caused "in part" by the desire of the TU players to retain the ball used during the game, was slightly idiotic. In the first place, about three different balls were used during the contest because a dry one was kept in play at all times. In the second place, 200 persons just don't start swinging to keep a ball.

BUREAU OF FINE PRINT: Perhaps the name of the "Peacepipe" trophy should be changed to the "War Club" award.

East Entrance For Seats In Sec. D, E, F

Don Cunningham, director of athletic publicity, urged all students and faculty with seats in Sections D, E, and F to enter the stadium at the EAST entrance.

This will avoid confusion in other sections, which use the west entrance, and will make it possible for everyone to get to his seat faster.

E. F. Beatty, director of services, also urges all to be in their seats by 1:40 p. m. Pre-game ceremonies will start at 1:40.

Army, USC Tilt Will Be Shown On TV

Coast-to-coast football is back on television this Saturday after a three week absence with the NCAA cameras focused on the week's top intersectional clash, Army vs. California at New York and the vital Conference battle between Illinois and Michigan at Champaign, Ill.

The undefeated Trojans, venturing east for the first time this year meet Red Blaik's rebuilt Army legions in a game telecast by 24 NBC-TV stations spread from Pittsburgh to the Pacific coast. Because the brace of games forms an "intersectional" pattern in the NCAA experimental program, the Mid-western game between undefeated-untied Illinois and Michigan, unscheduled in conference play but bearing bruises inflicted by Michigan State and Stanford, will be seen on 16 stations on Eastern and Southeastern stations.

Saturday's Army-USC game is to mark the first time since the Notre Dame-Southern Methodist battle that far western and California grid fans have been included in Saturday afternoon TV football offerings.

30th Annual Homecoming Program Full

Today opens Bowling Green's thirtieth Annual Homecoming weekend. Special events have been planned by various organizations to keep both alums and students busy.

An information booth sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa will be in the Ad Bldg. to aid guests and alums in locating the activities being held.

Tonight through Sunday night the student musical, "Swing It Shakespeare," will be given. It is being presented in the Main Aud. and begins at 8:15 p. m.

The featured dance of the evening is Panhellenic and Interfraternity Council's all campus dance. It will be held in the Women's Gym from 9 to 12 p. m. Greek letters of the various sororities and fraternities will decorate the walls of the gym, and a color scheme of brown and orange will be used. Music will be provided by the Autumnaires.

Idora Jones and Del Morgan are co-chairmen of the dance. They will be assisted by Lyn Eckert, invitation and chaperon chairman; Janet Steed and Jo Ann Kostelnik, publicity chairmen; and Jean Reichenbach, Jim Jarvis, Mary Jane McFall, and Dick Reed, decorations committee.

Parties will be held by many of the fraternities at their house from 9 to 12 this evening. Tomorrow many closed affairs are being held by various organizations. These include breakfasts, teas, games, and open houses for the guests and alums.

Before the game there will be an ROTC parade in the stadium. This will be followed by the crowning of the Homecoming Queen and her two attendants. Kick-off time is at 2 p. m.

In the evening the Coronation Ball will be the highlighted event. It is sponsored by the Men's and Women's Independent Societies and will be held in both the Men's and Women's Gym. The informal dance will be from 9 to 12:30. A huge crown will decorate the center of the ceiling with small crowns scattered about the gym to carry out the theme. The color scheme will be in black and aqua. Vic Stuart and his orchestra will play for the affair.

Bill Stahl is the general chairman of the dance.

Queen, Float, Decorations Are Universal

Homecoming time is here again and students on campuses all over the country are either busy preparing for a week end of festivities or slowly recovering from one.

But, if you think Bowling Green students are smothered with competitive activities at Homecoming what do you think of Western Reserve's schedule? On their big week end they have contests for Homecoming Queen, house decoration, floats and posters. Wonder if anyone notices the alums?

Among the different events sponsored at the various universities there seems to be an abundance of dances. For instance, a Scot kiltie band presented a series of formations for Wooster College's Homecoming. The idea is novel but can't you picture the BG males in kilts?

We wonder if the students at Georgia Tech will be stymied when it comes to decorating their houses? This year the contest judges have limited the decorating costs to "only" $50 per house. However, the Ramblin' Reck Parade would make up for any deficiency. The Parade, sponsored by the Teck Ramblin' Reck Club, will feature rebuilt junked automobiles converted into mechanical monstrosities. The trophy, a gold-plated spittoon, will be presented to the organization sponsoring the most unusual wreck. Bowling Green might hold such an event if the students could ever scrape enough cars together for a parade.

Parades, floats, and decorations—pack them tightly in one short week end and you have Homecoming. Have a good one.

'Western Nesters' Acquire Position On BG Campus

The word "nester," formerly applied to squatters in the unsettled West, has taken on new meaning at Bowling Green. Nesters now squat in the Nest on a chair instead of on an acre in the cow country.

The new nester threatens, not the rancher, but his own grades. Now don't misunderstand, nestling is fine relaxation, and recreation. Complications arise only when it becomes chronic.

The chronic nester can be spotted by his tendency to squint constantly as if he were peering through a smoke fog and usually he becomes a chain smoker, a black coffee drinker, and an expert on TV shows. He develops a talent for watching Milton Berle on the screen and listening to Frankie Laine records at the same time. His grades sink and notices from the dean's office arrive often. The chronic nester soon leaves Bowling Green.

Those who are not chronics fall into three distinct types, the date hunter, the class cutter, and the socialite.

The date hunter may drop in at various times—between classes, at noon, or in the evening. (In this case, they carried a book to lend the illusion that they have either been to the library or are on their way back home from a study session.) Their method begins with a nonchalant stroll through the tag line in front. They may stop to exchange witty remarks with a total stranger or two and perhaps have a cigarette with a person of the opposite sex.

The second step is to gracefully elbow through the door, bumping into as many prospects as possible.

Their next opportunity lies in the coffee line where many eligible dates may be standing. If no one asks them to sit down, the date seeker proceeds alone to the table of some acquaintance who may be sitting near a prospect. The rest is easy! They drink their coffee in five minutes and sit for an hour being as charming as possible. Sometimes they charm a victim into cutting class.

The class cutter can become a chronic nester quite easily. He sits there impressing a lovely girl as the 10-minute chimes ring. Five minutes more, he figures, and so he talks on until the hour chimes ring. Too late, he decides, and jabbars on through his next class, too. A class cutter, like a chronic nester, gets dean's notices and soon departs from the University.

The socialite type can be recognized as she flits from table to table laughing and being the most popular thing on campus. She knows just everybody and greets all with "HI, DOLL!"

We scientifically typed these nesters as we squatted in the Nest through three classes, an empty coffee cup before us, Frankie Laine whispering in our ear, Milton Berle hopping around on the TV screen and six date prospects near by.

Reception To Be Held

Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatics honorary, invites all of its alums to attend a reception in the student room of the Nest following the homecoming game.

Takes Over Clinic

Prof. A. Bruce Graham has been added to the permanent graduate faculty by the Graduate Council. Professor Graham will be in charge of the Speech Clinic.

Vic Stuart To Play At 'Coronation Ball'

VIC STUART

Vic Stuart, pictured above, and his twelve-piece orchestra will play for the "Coronation Ball" tomorrow night.

WIS and MIS are co-sponsors of the annual all-campus affair.

The Cla-Zel theatre has contributed 50 per cent of the expense of obtaining the band, which will come from Cleveland.
